Going with the Flow: Understanding How to Help Boys Read, Write, and Learn!

March 16, 2010

CSRA RESA is pleased to announce that Dr. Jeffrey Wilhelm will be with us on March 16, 2010 to present, Going with the Flow: Understanding How to Help Boys Read, Write, and Learn. Dr. Wilhelm is a well-known teacher, author, and presenter. A classroom teacher for fifteen years, Dr. Wilhelm is currently a professor at Boise State University, where he teaches courses in middle and secondary level literacy. He works in local schools as part of the Professional Development Site Network (PDSN). Dr. Wilhelm is also the founding director of the Maine Writing Project and the Boise State Writing Project. Dr. Wilhelm is the author and/or coauthor of 18 books on literacy and teaching. Most recently, Dr. Wilhelm studied adolescent boys and their reading, attitudes, aspirations, and the school opportunities available to them for actualizing and performing different ways of being literate. He is particularly interested in supporting the learning of students who are often considered to be reluctant or resistant.

We hope you will be able to join us as Dr. Wilhelm shares his expertise and insight on the differences of adolescent male learning styles. Registration will be taken on a first come, first served basis, however, priority will be given to schools in needs improvement status should the registration limit be exceeded. Sign up today to ensure your registration!
